POAC National Congress Horse Show Returns to Tulsa July 2018

The 2018 Pony Of the Americas National Congress Show will return to Tulsa Expo Square for exciting competition July 14-21st. POAC is expecting over 300 horses and riders from all over the United States to travel to Oklahoma for POA's largest and most prestigious show.

"POAC is proud to be a part of such a world-class facility again in 2018. The city of Tulsa is a great place for our members to not only exhibit their horses, but to learn about the Oklahoma culture and the many opportunities available to visitors from all areas of the country," says POAC CEO Joyse Banister. The POAC breed is best known as a versatile horse for the entire family.

Exhibitors ranging from the 6 & Under age division to the 45 & Over division will be competing at the POA National Congress Horse Show. All disciplines from halter to western and hunter rail events will be exhibited. Enjoy the excitement of jumping and gymkhana classes, and celebrate the heritage of the Native American Costume and Open Costume events!

All events are open to the public and admission is free. The show begins daily at 8:00am and most days will continue throughout the evening hours. Visitors can also shop at the many vendors located in the show arena area. The Congress will conclude with an exhibitor reception and the presentation of several High Point Awards earned from participation throughout the week.
